

TREY HOLM is Supervising Attorney for the Harvey Legal relief Project of Houston Volunteer Lawyers. His team coordinates free legal services to low-income families affected by Hurricane Harvey by linking qualified applicants with private attorneys who volunteer their time. Mr. Holm has successfully represented individuals and families in civil and family litigation matters. He supplemented this experience with several years managing a multi-million dollar international manufacturing business.

Mr. Holm received his law degree from Georgia State University, graduating with honors. He is a member of the Houston Lawyer Magazine Editorial Board and frequent lecturer on disaster and consumer law topics.